

Jens Haustein has agreed to become the new technical director for Idaho Rush effective immediately. Jens has served as the associate technical director for the past two years so he has a very good understanding of the strengths of the club and the challenges we embrace.

Jens has been coaching with Idaho Rush for four years, and in that time he has won three State Cup titles and one State Cup runners-up. He also coached the 93-94 boys team to the USYS President's Cup National Championship final in 2010.

Jens played professionally in Germany with Bayern Leverkusen in the Bundesliga, Germany's top professional league. He left home at an early age to live in a residential soccer academy and eventually played internationally on various German national youth teams. He completed his USSF National "B" license in 2012.
